

Frank M. McElroy

Attorney, Volk & McElroy

Frank M. McElroy was born in Jacksonville, Florida to active duty military parents. He was raised in Western Pennsylvania and lived and attended school in the Pittsburgh area. While growing up he saw the injustices that were perpetrated upon working class people by large corporations and the indifference of the government to the problems of citizens.

Mr. McElroy graduated from The Pennsylvania State University with a degree in Political Science. While at Penn State, he excelled in the study of Economics, Spanish, and English Literature, as well as Political Science. After graduating from Penn State, he worked for two large international banks in their mortgage lending departments. Mr. McElroy graduated from St. Mary's University School of Law where he excelled in mock trial and participated in the Civil Justice Clinic, helping the indigent people of San Antonio with their legal issues.

Attorney McElroy began his legal practice working with and learning from very successful and experienced attorneys in both criminal and civil practice. He built upon that experience to become a well-respected litigator in both criminal and civil matters. Mr. McElroy also teaches university classes in Criminal Courts and Criminal Procedure and serves on the local subcommittee of the Supreme Court of Texas Unauthorized Practice of Law Committee.

Mr. McElroy is also a proud faculty member of the University of Phoenix School of Criminal Justice and Security teaching Criminal Law and Criminal Procedure courses. In 2014 he co-authored the book "Central Texas DWI Charge? Useful Info Revealed That May Help Fight Your Charges" (Title Available on Amazon.com).

Mr. McElroy is a respected advocate throughout South Texas and has been asked on occasion to serve as a special prosecutor in Frio, Bexar, and Medina County, Texas. He has prosecuted both misdemeanor and felony matters (including 3g offenses) as well as adult and juvenile offenses.
